

The "entertainment lounge" under this stretch of Woodlands Ave 3 is swarmed from the windy hideout of a kiosk. The peddlers use this spot as a holding area before they depart one by one towards Woodlands Road in the evening.

A trek leads to this abode obscured by trees. Branches were cut to build clothes racks. Nearby is a washing log.

This cohort - now an abandoned bush dwelling - is one bathing area the peddlers use on the way to work.

Cigarette cartons are torn open and dumped into this ditch along Woodlands Road.

A 60m walk into this canal off Block 211 leads into a cohort, which the peddlers use for bathing.
