

Survey of the Johor Strait

Over three weeks in late 2012, scientists and volunteers worked from Pulau Ubin to study the rich marine life in Singapore's northern shores. Preliminary results have shown at least 17 animal species new to science, including crabs and worms.

