

Modi alliance set for majority

Exit polls released in the wake of India's mammoth elections point to a victory for Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and its allies. Official results are out on Thursday.

Indian voters taking a selfie after casting their votes at a polling station in Patna yesterday, during the seventh and final phase of India's general election.

Total Seats: 542 Seats for majority: 272

Pollsters	BJP*	Congress*	Others
Republic TV-CVoter	287	128	127
India Today-Axis My India	271 to 298	73 to 104	140 to 198
Times Now-VMR	306	132	104
News24-Today's Chanakya	340	70	132
ABP-Nielsen	267	127	148
News 18-Ipsos	336	82	124

NOTE: *Polling was cancelled in Vellore by the Election Commission. *Indicates allies.

Every single exit poll can't be wrong! Time to switch off the TV, log out of social media and wait to see if the world is still spinning on its axis on the 23rd (when the official results will be announced).

MR OMAR ABDULLAH, the leader of the National Conference, an opposition party

PHOTO: AFP STRAITS TIMES GRAPHICS